Finish It!

Whispering Woodlands

Saturday, January 15, 2012

10-4

We all have those unfinished 2D projects—paintings, collage, drawings, fiber arts. Whether you just need the time, some new ideas, or fresh eyes to view your work, this workshop should help generate some completed projects. Our day will be more structured than an open studio and will include positive, helpful beginning and ending group critiques, many hours of uninterrupted work time, a few handouts and “ideas” examples, with as much or as little personal attention from me as you need and want. For those who are “stuck,” individualized exercises will help you get going again.

Dress in your work/play clothes as you may get messy! If you are working in oil, please bring only odorless turpentine for the comfort of the other students. Feel free to contact me with any questions. If you are wanting to finish or rework an old work and can't remember what you need, feel free to contact me for guidance. I look forward to working with you at lovely Whispering Woodlands. Carpe Diem!

~Kay

What to Bring...

- ___ One or more unfinished work of art.
- ___ All materials necessary to finish the work (if oil, your brushes, odorless mediums, paints; if collage, your papers, scissors, adhesives, etc.)
- ___ A sketchbook or notebook for taking notes and planning
- ___ Pencils--#2 and Ebony or 4B
- ___ Masking tape
- ___ Paper towels or rags if working with paint or adhesives
- ___ For painters, your own table or floor easel if you have one. There are several in the studio for those who don't own one.

Recommended:

- ___ Some sheets of construction paper in various colors or white paper and some cheap colored markers
- ___ Digital camera
- ___ Images of artwork that you admire, connect with, want to emulate, etc.
- ___ Art supplies that aren't necessarily related to the work(s) you brought. Sometimes a “hopeless” work just needs to morph into a collage or mixed media work, a watercolor into a pastel, etc. If you have things you have been hoarding because you want to do something with them, bring them!
